

Isaac Bockman

Isaac has spent a long time in the water for someone so young. At only 10 years old, he has taken drills to their maximum potential by being very deliberate and focused with his movements, and it has really paid off in his stroke. Isaac may not seem to be an imposing figure as he travels to practice swaddled in his parka and hauling his equipment bag as big as himself, but in the water Isaac is a force of nature not to be reckoned with! His great technique led him to success at SC Age Group Champs, and he has a full schedule again for LC Age Groups. He loves competing in the 50 fly; setting a speedy tempo and never flagging. Likewise, his freestyle sprints have been on fire with his smooth strokes and powerful kick. This past season he has begun to dip his toes into mid-distance swimming and takes his practices seriously, learning about pace and the fine details of race strategy.

A strong competitor and a mindful swimmer, you can find Isaac cheering with his boys on the pool deck or talking shop in his practice lane. His focused discipline and ability to make astute observations about swims (of his and his competitors) makes him a smarter swimmer and a well-deserved FISH of the month!
